CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT

Prevention, Assessment & Treatment

October 28-29, 1996

Co-Sponsored by
University of Michigan
Health System's Child Protection Team
Michigan Committee to Prevent Child Abuse
University of Michigan Medical School

Ypsilanti Marriott
Ypsilanti, Michigan

Professionals working in the area of child abuse and neglect face a number of diverse and difficult problems. One of the most critical is the increasing demand on service with a marked decrease in resources to meet those demands. A second is the increasingly complex cases professionals are faced with - families with multiple problems such as substance abuse, domestic violence, physical and developmental disabilities, and mental illness. Families from different cultural and religious backgrounds often require special consideration of their diversity in assisting them. Child abuse professionals may have few peers, may feel isolated from essential contact with other professionals, and have little support and encouragement for what is often difficult work. Specific expertise on certain topics may not be accessible in their geographic area, and different areas may face a varying level of coordination of services. Professionals in this field may face a high level of burnout due to the pain and stress of continuously confronting child abuse and neglect.

Program Objectives

This conference has multiple goals:

The first is to enhance awareness among professionals working with children and families regarding different aspects of the issue of child abuse and neglect.

The second is to build concrete skills for the identification, assessment, treatment and prevention of child abuse and neglect and to develop methods to coordinate services.

The third is to bring professionals from the entire state together in a forum to share information and ideas about child abuse and neglect and to build support networks.

Experts from throughout the country will address participants as a whole and in small group settings through panels, workshops and multi-media presentations. Course participants will have the opportunity to learn about other programs and methods through information tables and booths.

Participants will have the opportunity to encounter state-of-the-art information about child abuse and neglect to aid them in developing new perspectives in their work and the chance to share ideas and resources with colleagues throughout the State of Michigan.

The conference is designed for professionals working with families, including: law enforcement personnel, physicians, nurses, mental health professionals, protective services workers, prevention specialists, attorneys, teachers, social workers, psychologists and psychiatrists.

Workshops

WORKSHOPS - SESSION I

1. Child Abuse Prevention - A Challenge in Collaboration

This workshop will look at what must be done to prevent child abuse, who can do it and how to get it done. This includes a discussion on what is meant by "prevention" and a specific, practical, multi-disciplinary list of prevention strategies that can be used by all existing systems e.g. education, health, and judicial, as well as government and community groups.

Naomi Haines Griffith, MSW

2. Three Perspectives of the Child Protection System in Michigan

A report of findings to date will be presented by the Children's Ombudsman, Richard Bearup. The Children's Commission's formation and charge will be summarized by Nanette Bowler, and Sheila Gruber McLean will discuss the Family Independence Agency's response to the findings of the Commission and the Ombudsman's report.

Sheila Gruber McLean

Richard Bearup

Nanette Bowler

3. Empowering Foster Parents as Allies in Working With Birth and Adoptive Parents

Learn a powerful way for maintaining difficult foster home placements and helping foster children to do better when they go home or move on to adoption. By helping foster parents define themselves as extended family caretakers, we enable them to use their implicit function in a way that can be more supportive and effective to all involved.

Kenneth W. Watson, MSW, ACSW

4. Juvenile Fire Setting: Diagnosis and Intervention

This workshop will review the literature dealing with the diagnosis and treatment of juvenile firesetting. Upon completion of the workshop the participant will be able to: identify behavioral characteristics of a "curiosity" firesetter versus the child with a more serious problem, identify interventions and programs for children with firesetting behavior, and identify the link between firesetting behavior and abuse and neglect.

M. Leora Bowden, MSW

5. Michigan Child Death Review Teams

Child death review teams have been implemented on a pilot basis in 17 counties. The primary goal for reviewing child deaths is to prevent unnecessary death. The key to accomplishing this is a recognition of how and why children die. The collection and interpretation of findings of a comprehensive review of child deaths can be used to identify trends, target prevention strategies, identify family/community needs, and/or support criminal justice intervention. One of the pilot teams will discuss their experiences in achieving project goals and objectives.

Teri Covington

WORKSHOP SESSION II

1. Reclaiming Our Neighborhoods: A Success Story

This workshop will describe how the Lansing Police Department implemented community policing and its success in one particular neighborhood. Detective Don Christy, one of the first officers to be assigned to community policing, will relate his personal experiences engaging the residents and helping them transform their community into a safe, attractive, friendly place to live.

Detective Don Christy

2. Utilizing Foster and Adoptive Parents in the Treatment of Attachment Difficulties in Children

Most children placed in foster care or adopted beyond infancy have attachment difficulties. Since these difficulties are the result of inadequate early parenting, foster or adoptive parents are in an ideal position to become primary therapeutic agents to help remedy the harm. This workshop will focus on how workers and foster or adoptive parents can form a clinical alliance, and the techniques of empowering and supporting parents in helping children with attachment difficulties.

Kenneth W. Watson, MSW, ACSW

3. Parental Perspectives on Family Preservation Services

Parents and professionals will share their experiences with a strength based family preservation service that uses a team approach and has reduced institutionalization of abused and neglected youth by 90%.

James E. Beougher, MSW

Lisa Cebulski

Kathryn Hoffman

4. Diagnosing and Appropriately Treating a Substance Abusing Mother

This workshop will include information on parenthood and addiction, indicators of substance abuse, methods of treating an addicted mother, and relapse prevention strategies. The mother's issues as a parent and the children's own recovery will be discussed.

Cynthia Harris

Jennifer Kent Bryant, MSW, CSW

5. Forensic Interviews of Children (This is a three hour workshop)

This workshop deals with the mechanics of planning and conducting forensic interviews with children. Included will be the overall structure of a forensic interview, details related to phrasing questions, and specific protocols and techniques. Discussion of current resources such as handbooks and training videos will be included, along with addresses for purchasing information, so that attendees can improve their resource libraries.

Debra A. Poole, PhD

WORKSHOP SESSION III

1. Forensic Interviews of Children (continued)

2. Attachment and Sexually Abused Children

Between sixty-five and eighty percent of the children now coming into foster care have been sexually abused. Based on work with children who are in foster care or adoption, this workshop will examine the relationship between sexual abuse and attachment disorders, and suggest clinical interventions for social workers, therapists, and foster and adoptive parents that will enable them to help those children who are victims of both.

Kenneth W. Watson, MSW, ACSW

3. Systems Reform: Advocating for Prevention

This workshop will discuss how to make prevention programming a priority in community decision making.

Michael Foley, MSW

4. Is this Child Really Ill or Should I Consider Munchausen's by Proxy?

Munchausen Syndrome by Proxy is an unusual disorder characterized by illness in a child which is simulated and/or produced by the parent or guardian. Children may repeatedly be presented for medical care, undergo numerous medical and surgical procedures and experience substantial injury and death in the futile medical investigation to identify non-existent organic disease. Knowledge of the common presentations, epidemiological factors and evaluation of this uncommon syndrome will assist in its proper recognition and management.

Vincent J. Palusci, MD

5. Working With Non-Offending Parents in Cases of Sexual Abuse

Non-offending parents of sexually abused children play a pivotal role in their children's recovery. These parents vary in their capacity to play this role. The workshop will describe assessment procedures for these parents, address their individual treatment issues and discuss treatment issues for them and their children. Case examples will be employed.

Kathleen Coulborn Faller, PhD, ACSW

WORKSHOP SESSION IV

1. The Empowered Witness

This workshop will explore the preparation and testimonial techniques that assist fact (lay) and opinion (expert) witnesses in most effectively telling their story to the judge and jury. Topics include the division of labor between the witness and the lawyer, effective use of the courtroom as a working space, and dealing with hostile lawyers.

Lance Jones, JD

2. Diagnostic Imaging of Child Abuse and Head Injuries

Some child abuse is recognized only from X-ray, CT scans, MRI scans or another type of imaging. This presentation will show how images are used in diagnosis with illustrative examples. Particular emphasis will be given to the specificity of various radiologic findings for child abuse as well as how alternative diagnoses are considered and discarded. Examples of proper techniques, interpretation and communication will be stressed. The current state of Shaken Impact Syndrome and other head injuries will be discussed with case examples to demonstrate imaging usage.

Peter J. Strouse, MD

Clyde L. Owings, MD, PhD

3. Societal Systems Trauma Following Disclosure of Child Sexual Abuse

This workshop will report the findings of a study entailing interviews of 90 sexually abused children who had been through the juvenile or criminal court system. The specific findings as to traumatic impact of specific system interventions will be detailed.

Jim Henry, PhD

4. Statewide Programs for Parents of Children with Special Need

This panel will present material about Early On, Michigan's system that serves the families of infants and toddlers with disabilities. Early On's Parent Leadership Training Program and Family Information Exchange Program (voice and computer communications system) will be highlighted. An overview of the Parent Empowerment Project which provides advocacy, information and support will also be presented.

L. Bryne Fortune

Sarah Wojtowicz, BS

Cindie Hall-Krive

5. Team Approach to the Evaluation of Failure to Thrive: Use of a Critical Pathway

The focus of this presentation will be the team approach to the evaluation of the child with failure to thrive in the hospital setting. A historical perspective on the development of the Failure to Thrive Team, the evolution of the Failure to Thrive Critical Pathway, how the team uses the pathway and how a comprehensive plan is developed for the child and family in the community will be covered. Case examples will be used to illustrate the interdisciplinary focus for evaluation and development of a plan of care.

Mott Children's Hospital Failure to Thrive Team Representatives

SEMINARS

1. The Joy of Living

This three hour workshop will explore the possibility of a truly joyous life, each and every day. One hour of fun exercise, 45 minutes on the philosophy of happiness and joy, followed by dialogue. Fun and uplifting.

Patch Adams, MD

2. Failure to Thrive

This presentation will emphasize moving beyond a simple conceptualization of failure to thrive as organic versus nonorganic. Risk factors in the infants, their parents and the environment will be reviewed. Early identification and prevention are most important.

Sheila Gahagan, MD

3. Kinship Care: Protection and Permanence for Abused Children

Kinship care can be used as a temporary or permanent haven for abused children. This workshop presents findings on kinship care including characteristics of children and caregivers and needs of caregivers and children. Frameworks for assessment of kinship placements will be provided with methods of using family decision making regarding protection and permanence. Kinship care is a valuable resource for maintaining a child's cultural identity and strengthening family ties.

Emily Jean McFadden, MSW

Crystal Mills, PhD, MSW

4. Family-Based Services: A Solution Focused Approach

Application of the principles of brief, solution-focused therapy to family-based services. Social services workers can deliver treatment that is cost effective, humane, and empowering to families in a variety of service programs.

Insoo Kim Berg, MSSW

5. Practical, Effective Techniques and Interventions to Help Abused Children with Attachment, Control, Identity and Anger Problems

Many children who experience abuse and neglect develop behavior problems that do not respond to traditional parenting or therapy techniques based primarily on rewarding, punishing, or paying consequences. The resistance is due to serious underlying emotional problems involving attachment, control, identity, anger, developmental delays in maturity, negative attitudes, and selfish values. Dr. Katz will provide a thorough understanding of these emotional problems and will demonstrate techniques that parents, therapists, teachers, and workers can use to work through and reduce these emotional problems. How to maximize the impact of therapeutic interventions will also be taught.
